Club Hour Begins!

Succos With Rambam!

On Motzei Shabbos Chol Hamoed, the 12th graders got together with Rabbi Haar and Rabbi Young for a Simchas Beis Hashoeva. In an attempt to achieve the goal of bringing more meaning and inspiration to everyone's Chag, there was tremendous singing, dancing, and delicious food.

As we all know, there's a Chiyuv of simcha on Succos. To enhance this feeling of simcha, Rabbi Young brought in live music, who, accompanied by Elly Honig on the bass, really made the night much more meaningful and inspiring for everyone. It was really nice to see how many guys showed up, and to see everyone really get into the singing and having a good time. After the Simchas Beis, Rabbi Young invited everyone down to Oceanside to play some competitive indoor football at Turf Island.

All in all, it was truly terrific night full of inspiration and simcha. On behalf of the entire 12th grade, I would like to thank Rabbi Young and Rabbi Haar for going above and beyond to make that night happen.

Meet The Author Book Club Meets International Bestselling Author

Tuesday, October 17, was the kickoff of Rambam's Meet The Author Book Club! Mr. Goldman drove the crew to Central Avenue's Blue Door Books where Paullina Simons talked to them about her new books, writing, and the publishing industry. Her international bestseller, The Bronze Horseman, about a girl in World War II Russia, is something of a phenomenon. She answered all of the Book Club's questions and discussed her writing process, as well as what made her interested in becoming and author. She even revealed that she rewrites her novels up to twenty times before they are finished! A number of the students bought her books and she signed the covers with a smile. The experience was an apt precursor to the club's coming year of authorial glory! Next Author: Alan Dershowitz, author of The Case for Israel, at the 92nd Street Y!
